A camera and other items were located inside a purse which was turned in to the lost and found at the 1999 WSFA State Speech Festival in Madison. There was no identification, but in an effort to find a clue as to whom these items might belong to, we had the film developed. This picture was among those on the roll. If you recognize any of these students, please contact the State Office at 608/882-6004. All we need is a correct description of the purse in which the camera, et al., was found and all will be resolved!!! Thanks for your help.

ALERT - SOME AUTHOR'S WORKS ARE TABOO!!

Accountability. Responsibility. We hear these words all the time. We work to instill these standards in the students we teach and/or coach.

WHSFA has stressed these attributes repeatedly. One example is the adjudicator training program. Another is the stipulation that Group Interpretive Reading ensembles have the original source material with them at each speech festival. A third measure of responsibility is the notice to coaches that coaches/schools must pay royalty for plays or receive a waiver of royalty.

Closely akin to these examples for upholding the standards of accountability and responsibility is facing the issue of "forbidden authors." Did you know that some authors forbid the cutting of their works? Did you know that some authors forbid the performing of only a portion of a play? Can you name the authors who forbid cutting works and partial performances?

According to past and present coaches, three playwrights routinely surface. Neil Simon (oh no - there goes Plaza Suite and The Odd Couple), Thornton Wilder (Yipes - Our Town is out!) and Tennessee Williams (S-c-r-e-e-c-h - put the brakes on A Streetcar Named Desire!) are authors who have expressly forbidden the cutting of the their works for performances of any type. When you call requesting royalty information or a waiver from paying royalty (since for Forensics you are not holding a full performance, not charging admission, not advertising for an audience), you are told that the play must be performed in its entirety as written and that a 15-minute cutting is not allowed. This has been the expressed wish of the playwright or of his heirs.

So, what does that mean for WHSFA coaches, District chairs and judges? Coaches - it means

WHSFA REMEMBERING...

Larry Larmer, WHSFA Executive Director, has been granted a sabbatical leave by both the University Extension and the WHSFA Board of Control. The leave will be from September 1, 1984 to January 1, 1985.

The following problem areas will be considered by Wisconsin Debate Coaches for the 1990-1991 Debate topic:
Outer Space, Asian Pacific Rim or The Middle East.

5 Years Ago - September, 1994
WHSFA welcomes five new members to the

be accountable, be responsible in NOT selecting works by "forbidden authors" for students to perform. If your students choose their play acting pieces, then COACH them to avoid these authors and explain why. District Chairs - remind your coaches in your next letter to them and at your fall/winter district meeting that your coaches are not to enter cut selections from Neil Simon, Thornton Wilder and Tennessee Williams. Also, remind them that at speech festivals, if judges see performances of these authors' works, expect those judges to bring that performance to the festival headquarters for review. And what choice will the festival director have, since everyone has prior knowledge that these authors' works are not to be cut, and therefore, do not fit into the WHSFA time constraints? Judges - you also know that these authors' works are not to be cut for performance. According to WHSFA Disqualification Guidelines, you have the obligation to listen to the entire presentation, NOT sign the evaluation sheet or ballot, and bring that questioned entry to the festival chairperson for review.

Accountability. Responsibility. These are qualities we expect in our work and in our everyday dealings with people. Let's be accountable and responsible in abiding by the expressed "no cutting" designation of the works of Neil Simon, Thornton Wilder and Tennessee Williams.

PS - WHSFA encourages coaches to identify other authors who belong on this list. If you have called for a royalty waiver and been told not to cut an author's work for Forensics performance, please notify the State Office. Thank you, and have a GREAT FORENSICS YEAR!!
